DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Applicant's election without traverse of Group I (Claims 1-14) in Paper No. 4 is acknowledged.

Accordingly, claims 15-19 are withdrawn from consideration as being directed to a non-elected invention. See 37 CFR 1.142(b) and MPEP § 821.03. Applicant has the right to file a divisional application covering the subject matter of the non-elected claims 16-39.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

3. Claims 1-2 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Ellis (USP 6,281,724).

Regarding claims 1-2, Ellis teaches a power regulation system includes a transient load generator (Fig.3), wherein the comprising: a first voltage source 13; a voltage control circuit 12 coupled to a first voltage source 13; a transistor 30 having a gate region G coupled to a comparator 22 of the voltage control circuit 12 (Col.4, lines 12-18); and a second voltage source 15 coupled to a drain region D of the transistor 30 (Col.4, lines 12-18)(Fig.3).

Other Prior Art

4. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure:

Dougherty (USP 6,198,302) disclose a system and method for testing power supplies.

Lundberg (USP 5,889,395) disclose an integrated low voltage regulator for high capacitive loads:

Allowable Subject Matter

5. Claims 3-14 are allowed.

6. The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter:

Regarding claim 3, none of the prior art of record teaches or suggests the combination of a transient load generator for testing a microelectronic power delivery system, wherein the generator comprising: a first voltage source having a first output voltage; a second voltage source having a second output voltage, wherein the second output voltage is greater than the first output voltage; a first current source coupled to the second voltage source; a second current source coupled to the second voltage source; a control circuit configured to receive an input trigger signal and transmit a corresponding signal to the second current source to switch the current source from an off state to an on state; a first transistor coupled to the first voltage source and the first current source; and a second transistor coupled to the second voltage source and the first transistor. It is these limitations as they are claimed in the combination, which have not been found, taught or suggested in the prior art of record, that make these claims allowable over the prior art.

Regarding claim 11, none of the prior art of record teaches or suggests the combination of a transient load generator for testing a microelectronic power delivery system, wherein the generator comprising: a first voltage source having a first output voltage; a second voltage source having a second output voltage, wherein the second output voltage is greater than the first output voltage; a current source coupled to the second voltage source; a first transistor coupled to the current source and to ground; and a second transistor coupled to the current source and to ground. It is these limitations as they are claimed in the combination, which have not been found, taught or suggested in the prior art of record, that make these claims allowable over the prior art.
